

Elisa Caleb is a rising star. Not produced from a musical school like many of her contemporaries, her unaffected voice conveys effortless charm and magnetism.

Born in the England from a mixed heritage (Barbados/Phillipines), Elisa was propelled into singing by chance in 2005 (her first gig was for a Russian oligarch in Moscow!). She has since performed in numerous venues around the UK and internationally and shared the stage with many of the UK's top musicians.

Her recently released debut album 'Carry Me Home' featuring the hot new single 'The Wind', demonstrates her breadth of artistry; from up-tempo swing to heart-breaking ballad, mellow folk to gospel. It is produced by former Amy Winehouse MD, Femi Temowo, and features Troy Miller (Amy Winehouse), Larry Bartley (Courtney Pine) and Ivo Neame.

"Knocking spots off some of her more heavily promoted UK and US counterparts...Carry Me Home reveals a singer with a terrific sense of time, wonderfully neat phrasing and one of the most mellifluous tones imaginable." – Jazzwise, Aug 2009

"Catch these refreshing performances by Elisa while you can get close to this emerging British Talent." – Eddie Fowler

"Ella-esque - a fine young singer." Timeout

"A charming vocal album by a singer with a gospel background and deep appreciation of the jazz greats...this is an impressive debut." – Peter Bacon

"Elisa's voice is strong and clear, poised and sophisticated." – Chris Parker